Profile

Jon Salter's move from a maritime related career to the food industry originated through the acquisition, in 1981, of a coffee shop in central Chatswood.

After a successful stint managing cafes and food outlets, he was drawn back to the food industry in the small goods distribution arena.

After a venture of importing Scandinavian food products for distribution to delicatessens and supermarket chains, Jon in 1996, began Food on the Move.

From humble beginnings, working from home with one insulated van, the business today boasts customers from some of the finest restaurants and caterers in Sydney and the Central Coast, serviced by five vehicles, and a dedicated team of seven.

Food on the Move's main mission is to give very personal service and develop niche markets by focusing on specialty items from the Asian, Continental and Middle Eastern regions. This has helped to forge lasting relationships with suppliers and importers, resulting in the objective that if a customer needs a product, Food on the Move will source and supply it.
